- Moral development is outstanding. Pupils are very good ambassadors for the school and speak about their school with pride. Their good behaviour and attitudes are underpinned by their knowledge and living out of the school’s mission statement: children said, ‘We try and do what Jesus does, He loves and forgives us’ and ‘The teachers try to get the younger children fascinated by RE’

What does the school need to do to improve further?

In order to continue to move forward, the school should consider the following:

- Ensure there is consistent challenge for all pupils ensuring greater scaffolding for the less able and provide for the more able children to have opportunities to deepen and vocalise their learning.
- Provide opportunities for children to be more independent thinkers and less passive in their learning.
- Allow greater opportunities for pupils to plan and lead meaningful good quality worship.

Curriculum religious education

Attainment and progress:	Good
Quality of teaching:	Good
Leadership and management of RE:	Good

- In the lessons observed as part of the validation, evidence was seen of pupils reflecting on the Sacraments. In the best lessons, learning was enhanced by teachers' subject knowledge, links to liturgy, good questioning, use of talk partners, personal experience and links to prior learning. Pupils reflected on how they could be Jesus' modern day disciples and the youngest children, through high expectations, were able to talk confidently about the Easter Story and the Resurrection.
- Pupils demonstrated a positive attitude to learning and behaviour was very good.
- In order to improve standards further, pupils need to be challenged in their thinking and allowed opportunities to voice their opinions more.
- Pupils need to have the opportunity be more active within lessons to allow them to be more fully engaged and motivated.
- RE displays are used widely as interactive working walls that highlight and focus key questions, vocabulary and pupil responses.
- The RE leader, is passionate and provides effective support for RE and as a result the subject has a high status within the school
